the government is also encouraging the use of tele-primary care to expand coverage and quality of healthcare, especially to people living in rural areas.

it doesn't take a genius to figure out that Chicago has streets named for presidents.

other financial factors varying over any given period of time and should not be construed as a promise.